

Storm Story - Sunday, June 5, 2005

A system over the Midwest had promised to bring a moderate chance of severe storms over the state, and that it did. Here are some photos from the Breckenridge and Ithaca area, with Ithaca taking the brunt of this storm. Not sure but looks to be straight line winds that did the damage to Ithaca, but did note the heaviest damage followed a s.w. to n.e. path. I will check the NWS site to see if a tornado survey was done on this event in Ithaca and update if different. Many residents were without power for a few hours to a few days.

Dime to Nickel Hail, SE of Breckenridge

Power lines down near M.A.C. Breckenridge

The bottom 4 pics are all from Ithaca

